Dayton, OH – Avelo Airlines, the newest airline at Dayton International Airport (DAY), will embark on its first flight from Dayton this Friday, January 13 with a sold-out flight. This low-cost airline headquartered in Houston, Texas, will offer nonstop air service from DAY to Orlando International Airport (MCO).

“We’re very excited to offer our passengers another affordable option for their travel needs with Avelo Airlines – and we’re thrilled our community responded in such a big way by selling out the first flight this Friday,” explains City of Dayton Director of Aviation, Gil Turner. “Avelo’s focus on offering a caring travel experience certainly aligns with Dayton’s reputation for being ‘easy to and through.’”

Avelo Airlines is a new airline founded with a mission to offer a smooth travel experience at affordable fares that inspire people to travel. Featuring a fleet of next-generation Boeing 737 aircraft and serving 34 destinations, Avelo offers an ‘unbundled’ pricing model allowing passengers to select options like checked or carry-on luggage, similar to other low-cost airlines. What they say sets them apart is their ‘Soul of Service’ culture, enabling their Crewmembers to advocate for their travelers should issues arise.

Avelo Airlines Chairman and CEO Andrew Levy said, “Dayton – it’s time to say hello to Avelo! We’re excited to start travel to Orlando with more affordability and ease than ever. Say hello to convenient and cost-friendly hometown airport access to The Sunshine State and hello to friendly, convenient, and reliable Avelo service to Orlando’s most convenient airport.”
