

Dayton Police Department now recruiting

Release Date: Monday, Oct. 21, 2019

Contact:

Cara Zinski-Neace, Police Information Specialist, 937-333-1201

Officer Dan Perkins, Recruitment Unit, 937-333-1306

The Dayton Police Department is seeking the next diverse and talented class of police recruits who have what it takes to live and work "Honor through Service, Service with Honor!"

The department is looking for a host of men and women with different perspectives and backgrounds who can bring their varied life experiences to serve the citizens of Dayton.

The application period for potential police recruits is now open and continues until December 16, 2019.

Applicants are often amazed at the many potential career paths within the Dayton Police Department. There are specialized positions, from detective to bike patrol, from hostage negotiator to S.W.A.T. member, from evidence technician to regional crowd management team. The department also offers many opportunities to advance into leadership roles.

The thread that ties together every Dayton officer, detective, sergeant, lieutenant, major or assistant chief is the willingness to answer the call to live a life of nobility through public service.

The Dayton Police Department and the City of Dayton offer recruits competitive salary and benefits, our own training academy, reasonable cost of living, a booming arts and entertainment scene, and extraordinary outdoor recreation opportunities.

For information on the application process, salary, and benefits, visit joindaytonpd.com. To apply, go to jobs.daytonohio.gov.

