The Dayton Human Relations Council is partnering with the University of Dayton to present a film series on the Latino American experience. Admission to the following films, all shown on the University of Dayton campus, is free:

In the Shadows: Undocumented Immigration in America

Thursday, Sept. 14, 6:30 p.m., Roesch Library Collab

"In the Shadows," a modern day "Grapes of Wrath," follows Jairo and his extended family of undocumented immigrants from their home in Mexico to a dairy farm in the United States in search of a better life and a means to send money home to their struggling families. The film looks at current immigration issues.

Visiones: Latino Art and Culture

Thursday, Sept. 21, 6:30 p.m., Roesch Library Collab

The award-winning "Visiones: Latino Art and Culture" is a journey through the music, words, dance, painting and performance of rich Latino cultures made more complex and fascinating by their history.

Even the Rain

Thursday, Sept. 28, 6:30 p.m., Roesch Library Collab

"Even the Rain" sets up an intriguing dialogue about Spanish imperialism through incidents taking place some 500 years apart, while examining the personal belief systems of a film crew headed by director Sebastian (Gael Garcia Bernal) and producer Costa (Luis Tosar) who arrive in Bolivia to make a revisionist film about the conquest of Latin America.

Parking: Use the main campus entrance (Stewart Street, just east of Brown Street) and follow the signs to visitor parking. An attendant will issue a parking pass. For more information, contact the Human Relations Council at 937-333-1403.
